Strategy

Global Flexible Fund

Investment style

Top-down approach in order to optimize asset allocation between, on the one hand, short-term liquidity, shares and bonds (neutral allocation : 1/3 for each class) and, on the other, between different OECD countries and/or regions according to their economic and financial situation.

Equity investments are mainly done in index funds or blue chips, while investment on fixed income is essentially on investment grade debtors.

The fund does not use any leverage but may take the opportunity to be positioned against particular overvalued assets through compliant financial tools and within the limits set in the prospectus.

A small portion of the assets may be allocated outside the OECD area.

Particular care is taken in order to ensure that the investments made have an excellent liquidity.

Investment target

The fund's target is to provide over time, an excess return over the composite benchmark : 1/3 cash, 1/3 Stoxx Euro 50 Index, 1/3 Bloomberg Barclays EuroAgg Bond Index.

Outlook : 4rd quarter 2017

Slowly but steadily the world economy continues to improve - and with central banks remaining quite dovish - the equities' long bull term trend does not seem in jeopardy.

Thus the main danger for riskier assets does not come presently from the economic environment but from a political event which could negatively impact the economy. As it is almost impossible to price these events before they happen, should one occur, it will feel like a sharp airplane's air pocket and portfolios need to be sufficiently well structured to be able to overcome these turbulences.

US bond yields continue to reflect skepticism that the Fed will even be able to achieve the modest interest rates rises expected until the end of 2018 and consequently they offer poor value, as is also by the way the case for yields on the other main currencies.

Manager's monthly comment

In November, the bull equity market has shown signs of vulnerability for the first time this year. Thus the fund could be reducing its equity allocation, currently at 44%, in the next weeks.

Bond duration remains low (1.83 years) as long term yields remain unattractive.
