Strategy

Global Flexible Fund

Investment style

Top-down approach in order to optimize asset allocation between, on the one hand, short-term liquidity, shares and bonds (neutral allocation : 1/3 for each class) and, on the other hand, between different OECD countries and/or regions according to their economic and financial situation.

Equity investments are mainly done in index funds or blue chips, while investment on fixed income is essentially on investment grade debtors.

The fund does not use any leverage but may take the opportunity to be positioned against particular overvalued assets through compliant financial tools and within the limits set in the prospectus.

A small portion of the assets may be allocated outside the OECD area.

Particular care is taken in order to ensure that the investments made have an excellent liquidity.

Outlook 2nd Quarter 2023

Will the banking crisis lead to such a restriction on lending that it will push one or more countries into recession ? This new question increases uncertainty, thus rising the premium on risky assets.

It will certainly slowdown central banks in their tightening campaign but also certainly the current situation is not enough to push them to start thinking of lowering interest rates.

All in all, a fluid situation which is not conducive of any big move one way or another.

Risk & Return Profile

Additional Risks

Liquidity risks: the Sub-Fund may invest part of its assets in less liquid securities. These are securities that are difficult to sell or exchange for cash and can lose value significantly under certain market conditions. Moreover, these securities cannot be sold quickly due to the absence of investors or speculators willing to acquire them at short notice.

Counterparty risks: the Sub-Fund may enter into various transactions with contractual partners. In the event of insolvency of a contractual partner, the latter can no longer settle, or may only settle in part, its debts to the sub-fund.

Credit risks: The sub-fund may invest a significant portion of its assets in debt securities. The issuers of these debt securities may become insolvent, in which case the securities lose some or all of their value.

Manager's monthly comment

Still no signs of recession. This allowed markets to behave well in April.

However the continuation of the equity bull move will be more difficult as the economy is slowing down and inflation remains sticky. Recession risks are at 30%.

Duration of bonds remains low as the market is anticipating that the Fed will lower rates in the second half of the year, which we believe to be unlikely at the moment.
